

workplace giving

As an employee, you can make a significant and lasting impact to Miracle Babies Foundation through workplace giving. Workplace giving enables you to make a difference through regular donations from your pre-tax pay, providing you with an immediate tax benefit.

Employers who wish to offer workplace giving consult with their staff to determine the charity(s) they would like to offer for workplace giving. They then approach the nominated charity(s) to make appropriate arrangements.

Just a few dollars per week can make a huge difference to the lives of miracle families in Australia.

how does it work?

Each pay your employer will automatically deduct your nominated donation before deducting your tax, so you can receive the benefits of reduced tax with each pay. The donation is paid directly by the employer to the charity. The workplace giving arrangement does not affect your gross income or other calculations, such as superannuation or fringe benefits (FBT).

You will not receive receipts from us at the end of the financial year, your group certificate will contain the necessary donation information to be used for your tax return.
